

A CHANGE IS IN THE AIR...

With the recent appointment of Julia Gillard as Australia's 27th (and first female) Prime Minister, the people of Australia hope that she can provide better leadership, especially with press release quotes like: A sustainable population strategy is underpinned by respect for the environment and respect for the needs of Australians requiring good infrastructure and services.

There are many policies and political 'junk mail' to read, news stories to watch, and personal opinions to discuss. My hope is that you make yourself well-informed of every parties stance on the issues important to you, like education, climate change and health, and make your vote count on Saturday 21 August.

EARTH HOUR 2010 A ROLLING SUCCESS!!!

A record number of 126 countries – with more than 4,300 cities and towns – took part in this year's Earth Hour. Across Australia, all capital cities, more than 150 local governments, and thousands of business participated (including Appleseed Inspirations).

“People all over the planet have again shown that the spirit of Earth Hour comes from millions of small actions that we can all take as one.”

WWF-Australia CEO Greg Bourne
